Adirondack Birth to Three Alliance
Annual Meeting: Early Childhood Systems Building
June 20, 2017

9:30 — Networking and light breakfast
10:00 — Welcome and introductions
10:05 — BT3 Alliance update
10:15 — Speaker: David Willis, a national perspective on cross-agency collaboration
10:45 — Speaker: Jerry Spegman, using data and information to communicate impact
11:15 — Presentation: Chemung County School Readiness Program
11:45 — Interactive panel discussion with audience questions
12:30 — Closing remarks, thank yous, and lunch
Speakers

JERRY SPEGMAN, J.D., is a Community Coach at County Health Rankings & Roadmaps, a collaboration of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and the University of Wisconsin Population Health Institute. He began working in public health in 1998 as the American Cancer Society’s staff lobbyist in Oregon, and then directed ACS’s advocacy program in Alaska, Montana, Oregon and Washington. Mr. Spegman received a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from Niagara University and a Juris Doctorate from the New England School of Law.

THE CHEMUNG COUNTY SCHOOL READINESS PROJECT is a ground-breaking new early childhood system that increases opportunities for all adults to nurture the healthy physical, social and cognitive development of children age 0 – 5 in Chemung County. With a solid foundation of early learning experiences, more children will be primed to be successful learners by the time they start Kindergarten. Three representatives will speak at the BT3 Annual Meeting: David Andriene, executive director of Comprehensive Interdisciplinary Developmental Services; Ruth Harvey, executive director at Chemung County Child Care Council; and Ellen Wohl, retired executive director of the Chemung County Child Care Council.

Megan Murphy, BT3 Director
megan@adirondackbt3.org • (518) 523-9904 • www.adirondackbt3.org